

"Living by the water inspires me every day. I feel lucky to be surrounded by the colors of nature and it's ever changing light. Having lived in France and Holland, the sky was always an important part of French and Dutch painting--and life--evoking several different moods. The places I have lived have become a part of me and what I value. My paintings are an attempt to share with others the images that stay with me even after I leave."